Further Information?

Because the course only costs £15 per driver, it can pay for itself within a few weeks, bringing welcome relief from today's high fuel prices. This is because:

- Smarter driving can improve fuel consumption by around 15 per cent, helping you save money and carbon.
- The training is subsidised by the Department for Transport meaning it represents the best possible value for money.
- Smarter drivers tend to be safer ones too meaning your drivers are less likely to suffer from the human and financial costs of road traffic accidents.
